

Town Cryer

Town Cryer

Published on the first Angestag of each Mannslich.

Mordheim 3 Groats

WHO ATE ALL THE PIES?

In our last missive we bid you all welcome our northern cousins with open arms. This issue would bid you take care of your purses as a new (and much shorter) breed of brigand is afoot. Yes, the low cunning of the hair-footed Halfling is known to all, and there seems to be a veritable plague of them hereabouts. Whilst certain lowlifes may find the light-fingered talents of the diminutive Mootfolk to be a boon in their black dealings, let me tell you that Sigmar will not stand for such behaviour! Surely none can doubt that He is watching. This is as well as the little folk are hard indeed to spot for mortal eyes...

On a completely unrelated note, prices for baked goods are set to rise across the city due to a shortage of pies.

REVELLERS OF THE DEAD

Stay away from the Rich Quarter during latter-half of harvest season fore the Parade of the Dead is said to wind it's way through the streets.

Anyone who looks upon the parade will have his soul wretched from their body and then join revellers as a ghostly dancer. Every year the parade grows in size as more sould swells the ranks - doomed to dance the jig of death for all eternity. You have been warned...

Here Within

Holiday Hotspots
- chose your destination wisely

Learn of the best way to cook
Goblin Dangles

Ramblings from the scribe.
Laugh at the old fool

Town Cryer

SEE GERALD PARDON'S FAMOUS PERFORMING MONKEYS

Now at the Big Top on the road before Sigmarhaven

LOST

Enchanted nose ring
that went missing
somewhere in the Garden District

Greatful reward will be given for return of said nose-ring.

A bonus of 50 Gold Pieces will be given if the nose is still attached.

SCRIBE'S HONOURABLE MENTION

Mad Andreas Halldenstaat

For Trade or Sayle

Exotic rodent beast from the north of Albion – the Haggarsh.

Considered a delicasee by the northern tribesmen of the isle, who must hunt
and kill one in a coming of age ceremony.

Have both live and dead in stock. (If you wish to purchase a live one then please do not feed after midnight or get wet).

Contact 'Tzoom' at the Crafty Dwarf Tavern

Come to Skeggi

The Norse colony of Skeggi, across the great ocean is seeking to expand upon its small population.

What Skeggi has to offer:
Great Beach (mind the killer-jellyfish)
Selection of fine taverns (one)
Boating lake (Beware the Skinks)
Promenade (Dirt road by the coast)

If you survive the eight month voyage we'll be happy to have you!

Ye departed Editor of Town Cryer

Stephanus Harburgh

'it's been over a year and you're still missed...'

For Sayle

Garlic Potion

For hunters of the dread night-creatures, the Wampyre.

Also great on salads.

Find the Apothecary at the botom of Van-Heinz Lane

OBITUARIES

Marcus of the Cox

Who hath threatened your esteemed editor with death should he ever appear on this page...

Farmer Goodie's Prize Pig, 'Jade'

Truely an animal that got more attention than it deserved.

Marvin 'Marv' Vottendorn

Found with knife in back.

'Black' Les

So called because of the colour of his teeth. Died in the dentists chair.

'Xylophone man'

Infamous busker. Who will strike up and down the scales now?

FOR SAYLE

Oppulant Coach

Nearly new, ridden by the wealthiest personages around, rated 5 stars in What Coach? periodical.
"Great cornering, it's ability to scatter peasents is unparalleled in the O-Series"
– Sir Jerimias Clarke

Due for 6,000 league service. Sold as seen. Contact Swiss Anthony for details.

Town Cryer